DEMOCRATS WIN.

The Courts Decide in Their Favor in the New York Contests.

A BUNDLE OF OPINIONS.

Canvassers Have Not the Right to Pass on the Eligibility of Candidates

Onondaga Democrats Elected.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The decisions in the elections cases by the court of appeals give the senate to the Democrats.

The twenty-fifth and twenty-seventh districts are decided in favor of the Republicans and the fifteenth and sixteenth in favor of the Democrats. The court decided against senatorial claimants Peck, Dean and Sherwood and declares Derby elected.

In the matter of the application of Frank D. Sherwood for a mandamus against the state board of canvassers, appelate, an appeal from the supreme court order compelling the board to count the returns regardless of the eligibility of the rector; orders of special and general terms reversed and the application for a mandamus denied, prevailing opinion by Judge Earl dissenting opinion by Judge Finch.

In the matter of application of Rufus T. Peck, respondent, for a writ of mandamus against the state board of canvassers, appellates, an appeal from an answer of the supreme court directing the state board to give the certificate to Rufus T. Peck (Rep.) as senator from the Twenty-fifth district (two), orders of special and general terms reversed and application for mandamus denied without costs. No opinion, all concur except Andrews, Finch and Peckham, dissenting.

In the matter of the people ex rel. Franklin D. Sherwood for a mandamus against Frank Rice as secretary of state, appellant, an appeal for compelling him to call a meeting of the state board, orders of general and special terms reversed and the application for a mandamus denied. Opinion by Earl, all concur.

The people of the state of New York ex rel. John A. Nichols vs. the board of county canvassers of Onondaga county applts. an appeal from an order of the supreme court compelling the board to send certain election returns back to the town inspectors and then upon their return to declare an election—order affirmed without costs. Opinions by Ruger, Gray and O'Brien, concurred in by Earl, dissenting opinions by Andrews and Peckham, concurred in by Finch.

In regard to application of David A. Munroe, etc., vs. county canvassers of Onondaga county that part of the order directing a mandamus to issue commanding the county canvassers to cause the inspectors' returns to be sent back to them for the correction of clerical errors appearing in regard to the time and spelling, affirmed, but the rest of the order, requiring the board to canvass, reversed and writ modified accordingly without costs. Opinion by O'Brien, all concur except Andrews, Finch and Peckham, who concur except as to the modification and as to this they dissent.

In re. Patrick J. Rice, respondent, vs. board of county canvassers of Onondaga county, etc., appellants; order affirmed without costs. No opinion. All concur except Andrews, Finch and Peckham, dissenting.

In the matter of the application of the people of the state of New York ex rel. John H. Derby for a mandamus against Frank E. Rice and other members of the board of canvassers, appellants; an appeal from a peremptory mandamus ordering the board to declare Derby elected to the sixteenth senatorial district and to refrain from considering any other claim. Order affirmed, without costs. Opinion by Gray; all concur.

In the matter of the application of the people ex rel. W. C. Daly and John L. Pieck, for a mandamus against the state board of canvassers, appellant; an appeal from an order of the supreme court directing the board to refuse the so-called Mylod certificate in the Dutchess county matter, and that they issue an election certificate upon the face of the returns afterwards presented. Order for the writ and the writ itself modified by striking out the provisions requiring a return to be certified by and to come from the county clerk of Dutchess county and issued under his seal and as so modified; order affirmed. Opinion by Peckham; all concur.

Effects of the Decisions.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The effect of the decisions of the court of appeals appears to be that in the Onondaga senatorial and assembly districts the Democratic candidates will get the certificates. In the Steuben senatorial district both the candidates are ineligible, but W. A. Sutherland, the Republicans' attorney, however, says the court's opinion says that the board should give a certificate to Miller, the Democratic candidate. In the Twenty-fifth Washington district, Derby, the Republican candidate, will get the certificate. In the Dutchess county district, Judge Cadby, counsel for Deane, says the court's decision states that while the "Mylod" certificate could be canvassed so far as regards its form, and allegations to its truthfulness and regularity on behalf of the Republicans have not been met by the Democrats, and therefore the board of canvassers should await another return from Dutchess county.

The Emperor May Visit America.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—From inquiries made by the German embassy relative to the sailing of the ship Teutonic, and from reports that have come from Berlin there is reason to believe that the German kaiser intends a visit incognito to the United States.

Last summer, when the kaiser was going to Heligoland in the steamship Fuerst Bismarck, along with the empress, he made a remark indicating that an American journey was in his mind. It is said that his desire to see the American people for himself has grown stronger since and that he will take an early opportunity to gratify himself. The only tangible foundation for the report appears to be the inquiry emanating from the embassy both as to dates of sailing and accommodations on board. It is expected that the kaiser would travel by one of his minor titles, probably as the Count of Ravensburg. The steamship Teutonic will leave Liverpool for New York on Jan. 6, and if the kaiser goes it will probably be on that date, unless he should be offended by the discovery of his plans.

Fire in Plainfield.

ARMOUR, Ills., Dec. 29.—The business portion of Plainfield, seventeen miles from this city, was burned early this morning. Among the buildings destroyed were Darr & McClester's hardware store and grocery, Cherrman & Overman's dry goods store, Armagee & Thompson's meat market, the office and printing room of the Plainfield Enterprise, the only newspaper in town and a number of tenements. The fire started in the meat market. The loss will reach $20,000 and is partially covered by insurance.

Investigating the Riot.

GUNNISON, Col., Dec. 29.—In the trial of the strikers who were arrested on the charge of inciting a riot and conspiring to kill Sheriff Shorts and posse during the recent coal miners' strike at Crested Butte, Col., testimony was continued to-day. Sheriff Shorts told how on his arrival at Crested Butte he was met at the depot by a Catholic priest of that place, who tried to induce him to leave town without interfering with the strikers and who had sent a messenger to him in vain in trying to quell the strikers. Shortly after this a mob of Italians and Austrians attacked the sheriff and his posse and fired upwards of fifty shots at them, though none of the sheriff's party were seriously hurt. The posse did not return the fire until several volleys had been shot at them. Other witnesses testified that B. F. Follett, the saloon keeper, was the leader of the mob, and that he advised them to kill the sheriff and posse. He had boasted that he had led other strikers and knew what he was about. The court then adjourned.

Death of a Bishop.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The Right Rev. John Loughlin, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Long Island and one of the best known prelates in the country died this afternoon. He had been ill but a week with a complication of diseases and although his condition was this morning considered serious by the attending physicians, it was thought he would pull through. All day he was perfectly conscious and recognized the many devoted priests who knelt around his bedside and offered up prayers in his behalf. His great vitality stood him to the last and when the end came, shortly after 4 o'clock, he was in full possession of his mental powers.

Bishop Loughlin was 74 years of age. He was born in county Down, Ireland, in 1816, and came to this country at the age of 7 years. He studied for the priesthood at the Albany academy and finished at Chambly, Canada. He was ordained a priest October 18, 1840, and was at once assigned to the diocese of New York. His first charge was a small parish in Utica, N. Y. On October 30, 1853, he was made bishop of the diocese of Long Island, and was then formally installed on the 10th of November. He was then 35 years of age. Last October Bishop Loughlin celebrated the golden jubilee of his ordination to priesthood, and it was made a memorable event by the Catholics of Brooklyn.

Daring Attempt at Jail Breaking.

DENVER, Dec. 29.—The discovery of the sixth daring attempt of prisoners to escape from the county jail within six months has just come to light. The last was by far the most ingenious and had it not been nipped in the bud might have resulted in the escape of every person confined in the Arapahoe jail, trainrobbers, counterfeiters, murderers, and all.

One of the Rio Grande train robbers named Bert Curtis and his cell mates had a friend outside of the jail, who smuggled into him several saws, drills and a revolver. Curtis and his cell mates had just about completed arrangements to break out of their cell when discovered. As there were but two guards for the entire jail their plan was to saw through their own cell, overpower the guards and then release the rest of the prisoners confined in the jail, numbering about two hundred in all. Among these are the Rio Grande trainrobbers, Price, McCoy and Peg Leg.

The Graves Trial.

DENVER, Dec. 29.—In the Graves trial this morning E. S. Morrell, Jr., a witness for the prosecution was recalled, but nothing new was developed in his testimony. This ended the testimony for both sides and Judge Rising gave his instructions to the jury. Tate Peace then began his closing argument for the prosecution.

M. Peace spoke for five hours and at his conclusion the court took a recess until 7:30 p. m. At the evening session Colonel Ballou opened the argument for the defense and spoke until a late hour when court adjourned until to-morrow morning.

A Terrible Blizzard.

DENVER, Dec. 29.—A Republican special from Santa Fe, N. M., says: The drifting snow has blocked all the railroads entering Raton pass, and the Atchison, Santa Fe and Denver train from the Santa Fe will be snowed in for two days. It is expected the blockade will be raised soon.

A Snowslide at Leadville.

DENVER, Dec. 29. A Times special from Leadville, Colo., says: A snowslide occurred at Alicante, a mining camp ten miles from here last night. John Asmus was instantly killed and a number of other men whose names are unknown were severely injured. Several cabins were demolished.

Sampling Works Sold.

PUEBLO, Dec. 29.—The Central Ore Sampling works, one of the largest in Southern Colorado, was sold to R. C. Hawley to-day. Mr. McKinney retiring. The latter gentleman will remain in Pueblo and embark in mining brokerage.

A Disastrous Collision.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Chillicothe, Mo., says: By a mistake in train orders a disastrous collision occurred between two freight trains on the Hannibal and St. Joe railroad seven miles east of here at 3 o'clock this morning resulting in the death of four of the trainmen and the fatal wounding of two others. The dead are Andrew Bates of engine 51, Firemen Berry of engine 56 and Brakeman Gilmore.

Brakeman Bell was taken from beneath a pile of debris and is so badly injured that he cannot live, while Dominick Hanan of engine 46 received internal injuries and will die. Eleven cars of cattle were wrecked. The stock caught fire and the poor animals were slowly roasted to death.

For the Relief of Russia.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The department of agriculture is in receipt of a great many inquiries from relief committees and individuals in the west in regard to the distressed condition of the people in Russia and asking for information as to the best method of sending donations. The Russian consul-general at New York, the secretary says, will ship them to Russia. No arrangements have been made for the transportation of the corn from interior points, and the secretary Rusk has suggested to those in the West who will send contributions that doubtless the railroads will do their share in the good work by carrying them free.

Dr. Heber Newton Ill.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. Rev. Dr. Heber Newton is dangerously ill. He has been ill several days from a hard attack of the grippe and the trouble has referred itself into a complication of disorders, the chief of which is supposed to be pneumonia. Several physicians have been in attendance upon the patient. At a late hour to-night it was said that no immediate danger was expected and that there had been no change in the patient's condition for two days. He has been unconscious most of the time.

The Messiah Craze Again.

CHEYENNE, Ok., Dec. 29.—A courier coming in from the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation to-night states that the Messiah craze has broken out afresh among the Indians there. Left Hand, head chief of the Arapahoes, and Old Crow and Whirlwind, chiefs of the Cheyennes, have gathered a thousand Indians about them among the interior hills and for many days and nights have kept the dance up continually, declaring that they will not stop until the savior arrives. Other members of the tribe are daily joining them and it is feared they will cause considerable trouble.

Indian Rioting.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 29. United States marshal Wiswall has left for the Stockbridge Indian reservation in response to a telegram stating that the Indians there were rioting. No further particulars were contained in the dispatch to the marshal. The Stockbridges are located on the east shore of Lake Winnebago and number 3000. They have abandoned their tribal relations.

A New Departure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—An order has been issued by Chas. Huntington providing for the furnishing to the press the earnings of the Southern Pacific railroad. What the object of this new departure is can only be conjectured.

A CABINET MEETING.

All the Secretaries But Elkins Talk About Chili.

BUT NOT FOR PUBLICATION.

England's Influence is Now said to be for Peace Some People Still Think There is Going to be a War.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. The changes in the situation of the Chilian affair are kaleidoscopic and instantaneous in their nature and go from one extreme to the other. Nothing could be more radically different from anything else than the sentiment about the state, war and navy buildings yesterday from that of to-day. Last night all was bustle and the feeling was decidedly pugnacious. To-day the departments were comparatively deserted, and it is felt that the possibility of war is very remote. Yesterday the corridors and ante-rooms were filled with statesmen and diplomats, to-day there were not enough around to prevent the place from wearing an almost deserted look. Of news there was absolutely nothing, although something was promised from the state department later in the day, while rumors were almost as scarce. Senator McPherson, Representative Lodge of the house naval committee and Representative Brower of North Carolina, were Secretary Tracy's only visitors before the cabinet met, while Secretary Blaine had none at all aside from the department officials. It is generally understood about the state department that on cabinet days the secretary will see no one except by previous engagement, so that casual callers on these days are infrequent. Around the navy department it was hinted that the cause of the sudden subsidence of the war talk was due to the fact that congress could not be depended on for supplying the necessary funds to carry on a campaign against Chili, that in fact it probably would not give its consent to the declaration of hostilities against that country. What authority existed for this opinion was not stated, it seemed to be in the air, but was more substantial than mere wind.

Sentiment in the state department credited the peaceful condition of things to the influence of English interests in Chili, which in a business way are paramount. It was said that the Chilian authorities would be told plainly that England would not suffer them to jeopardize the property of its subjects in Chili and the late conquered territory of Peru, as a conflict with the United States certainly would do, and that therefore an amicable understanding must be reached with this government. In this connection, the visit of Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister, to Mr. Blaine, which immediately preceded the lengthy conference between the secretary and Minister Montt yesterday, is regarded as significant.

The cabinet meeting to-day, at which all members were present except Secretary Elkins, was unusually large, and it is understood Chilian affairs formed the principal topic of discussion. If any change of policy or view occurred in the light of latest information from Valparaiso, it has not yet transpired.

AN OFFICER'S OPINION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A prominent army officer who served on the staff of one of the great generals in the rebellion and has a thorough knowledge of South America, gained from his travels and advices in the recent talks about the situation, finds. His opinions are based upon his knowledge of the country and his extended military experience and his familiarity with the country. "The only possible alternatives in this matter are negotiation from Chili, or war," he said. "From what I know of these people I think that it is out of the question to expect an apology from them and they are just spoiling for a fight. Of course the navy would take a prominent part in case of war, as it would no doubt be thought advisable to have a force for land operations. The only ports of Chili are Valparaiso and Iquique. Peru would be only too glad of an opportunity to ally herself with any strong nation against Chili, and her ports might be available to us. Iquique itself was taken from Peru by the Chilians and she would be eager to enter any fight which would give her a chance to regain her lost territory. The talk about Chili being a difficult country for military operations is all a mistake. It does not compare with our Western states in that respect. All of the necessary supplies would be right at hand. All we would have to do would be to capture them. It would be just like fighting the Mexicans, and so far as the personnel of the two forces is concerned, there would be no comparison. Our officers are infinitely superior to the Chilians in every requirement for modern warfare. Their training is far ahead. The Chilians might be good in a rough-and-tumble fight, but for scientific operations they would be nowhere."

No One but Blaine Will Do.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 29.—Senator Quay spent to day at the Duquesne house. During his stay in the city he entertained a number of political leaders. The senator was asked if it was true, as reported, that his second choice for the presidential nomination is General Alger and he replied: "I am for Secretary Blaine, he is my choice." "But who is your second choice, senator?"

"I have no second choice."

"Do you think Blaine will be a candidate?"

"I really don't know; but if Mr. Blaine is not a candidate, I don't he will refuse to accept the nomination if it is tendered him."

The senator once more repeated his statement that he was not a candidate for the senatorship just yet, as it was a little too early to think about it. What he might do in the future was another question.

Hon. B. F. Jones, to-day announced himself as a candidate for national delegate in the twenty-third district in the interest of James G. Blaine.

Ingalls Not In the Race.

TOPEKA, Dec. 29. Governor Humphrey decided this morning to give all delegations a hearing in regard to the various gubernatorial candidates, and all day his office has been thronged with politicians. The first candidate to interview the governor was Major J. K. Hudson, and the two men were closeted nearly two hours. The Leavenworth delegation for ex-Congressman Morrill was to be admitted to the private room, and later the adherents of J. W. Addy were heard. The Perkins and Hudson delegations will press at their respective claims to-morrow.

It is thought by the best informed that the fight is between Perkins, Hudson and Ady. Ingalls' name is scarcely mentioned.

Squaw Men on the Warpath.

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 29.—The squaw men and half breeds in this vicinity held an indignation meeting last night to protest against the decision of the secretary of the interior and the assistant attorney-general. The decision will probably affect 1000 persons at the Cheyenne River agency alone and it will annul 320 Indian allotments made to supposed Indians in the Pierre land district.

It is anticipated that there will be a great deal of trouble over this decision, which Indian sympathizers are pointing to as adding one more outrage to the century of wrong. The meeting decided to send a representative to Washington and lay the matter before the president and congress. It was decided to have it by lineal descent on the part of the white to give their land to the Indian.

GUIDES NEEDED.

Hostilities Continue Along the Banks of the Rio Grande.

MORE TROOPS ORDERED OUT.

Mules and Men Sent From Wyoming. A Train Load of Mexican Troops Arrive on the Scene of War. Insurgent Accessions.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 29.—Assistant adjutant-general J. P. Martin, of this military department, today received a despatch from Capt. A. W. Pollock, of the Twenty-third infantry, in command at Fort McIntosh, giving information concerning the position of the troops stationed at that post. He states that troop A left that post on Dec. 25. Troop G is on the river, about twenty-five miles above Roma, Tex.; troop I is on the river, a day's march from the last on route to Carrizo, Tex. The order issued for troops G and K, of the Third cavalry, to proceed by special train today to the scene of the trouble from the post at San Antonio was not carried out, as the transportation facilities could not be secured. They will not leave until Saturday unless their presence is urgently needed before that time.

General Stanley to-day received a despatch from Major-general Schofield stating that he had just been informed by the Mexican minister at Washington that Catarino Garza has established headquarters at the Prieto ranch in Starr county, Tex., and that he is holding as a prisoner a prominent citizen of Mexico. The despatch requests that General Stanley will, in compliance with instructions heretofore given him by the secretary of war, employ all the means at his disposal to prevent any further violation of the neutrality laws.

General Stanley stated to the United Press correspondent this evening that Second-lieutenant George T. Langhorne of the Third cavalry is now scouting with his command of thirty troopers in the vicinity of the Prieto ranch. Langhorne left Fort Ringgold four days ago on a scouting expedition through Duvall and Starr counties, which are the strongholds of the revolutionists. Nothing has been heard from him or any of his command since their departure from Fort Ringgold, and as they are over a day's march from the post and in the midst of the Garza men grave fears are entertained for their safety.

There has been conclusive proof obtained that Garza has established recruiting stations at a number of ranches all along the border between Eagle Pass and Brownsville, on the Texas side, and that there are hundreds of his sympathizers crossing over from Mexico at the unprotected fords of the Rio Grande, and enlisting in his army. The 700 United States troops are almost wholly powerless to prevent this flagrant violation of the neutrality law, owing to the vast frontier territory there is to be covered. The revolutionists have evidently no fears from United States military, and therefore find it more convenient to carry on their recruiting operations on this side of the border.

Fire arms and ammunition supplies in all the towns along the border and in Mexico, have been quietly purchased by secret agents of the revolutionists. As a matter of fact, according to a despatch received here today, there is believed to be a large secret following of Garza who are ready to join him at the proper time, when the details of his campaign have been fully matured. There is a feeling of anxiety among all classes of business men, both in Texas and in Mexico, and many of them are leaving the country before the present trouble assumes a more serious phase.

United States troops are meeting with difficulties in their scouting operations, and to overcome them a mule train, consisting of twenty-five mules and six experienced Indian scouts, has been ordered to the turbulent section from Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming. This force will be greatly augmented upon its arrival here, and it is expected will render great assistance.

Nothing was heard to-day of Captain Hardie, but he is supposed to still be in pursuit of the revolutionists.

OTHER DISPATCHES.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Dec. 29. Few developments are to be learned in regard to the Garza revolution today. The Mexican troops which arrived in this city last are almost evenly divided between cavalry and infantry, it is probable that the former will leave at once for the lower Rio Grande station. The Mexican consul at this point asserts that everything is quiet on the Mexican side of the river to-day.

People here who know the lower Rio Grande country are pleased to see that the war department has taken measures to procure guides for the United States troops who leave this and other frontier points scouting for the revolutionists as they are not familiar with the winding paths, brush, chaparral and hills without guides and become utterly lost in the country.

STARTING AGAIN.

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 29.—A Brownsville, Texas, special says: Rumors from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande are to the effect that 4,000 Mexican troops stationed at Mier have revolted, killed their commanding officers and are off to join Garza's band.

Two Prize Fights.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Andy Bowen and Austin Gibbons fought in the new arena of the Metropolitan club for a purse of $2,000, winner to receive $2,000. Both men weighed in at the ring under 133 pounds. Time was called at 9:10 p. m. Gibbons won in the forty-eighth round.

AT SAN FRANCISCO.

The fight between McAuliffe and Cardiff at San Francisco was won by McAuliffe in the fifteenth round.

W. Bureau Indications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Forecast till 8 p. m. Wednesday: For Colorado: Generally fair in eastern, local snows in western portion, southerly winds; warmer in southeast, stationary temperature in northeast portion.

More Bonds Redeemed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The amount of 4½ per cent. bonds redeemed to-day was $2,500 making the total redemptions to date $59,453,150 leaving outstanding $63,061,650.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

Assistant-secretary Willets of the department of agriculture, will preside at the meeting of the American Forestry association which begins to-day. Ex-senator Edmunds, who is now at Aiken, South Carolina, sent a letter expressing his regret at his inability to be present.

A special dispatch from Montreal says that the wholesale tailed and woolen firm of Mills & McDougall, owing to a succession of bad seasons, has been forced to call a meeting of its creditors. The liabilities are stated to be $500,000, principally owing in Canada.

From Cripple Creek.

FREMONT, Colo., Dec. 29.

Christmas passed very quietly up here and, indeed, it seemed hard to realize that it was Christmas.

In the evening a dance was held in the loft over Sills & Mills' grocery store in Squaw gulch. The orchestra, composed of two violins and a guitar, played some very good music, to which the fifteen couples kept time. Afterward, thanks to Mrs. Dennis, several cakes and pies were all eaten and the company broke up, after a very pleasant evening, and their first in Cripple Creek.

Mr. Stratton has his shaft down 30 feet on the Washington, and having a good shaft house built over it, he is enabled to work there regardless of the weather. His ore he is putting in sacks and shipping to Pueblo, which brings him in a very good income. He has another mine called the Wilson Creek Contact, which, although it is only down 12 feet, has already produced some very fine specimens of free gold; but the bad weather prevents his working it.

Mr. Timothy Hussey has a shaft at the foot of Bull mountain which was dug thirty years ago. It is nicely timbered, and is eighty feet deep. He has been waiting for the cold weather to drive off the bad air, and he says in two days by drifting he can strike the lead. The dirt from the bottom has a decomposed appearance and carries some black sand.

There is a large hotel going up near the postoffice in Fremont and will be ready for business in a few weeks.

Canon City is about to put a road through, as they have the required amount of money nearly raised.

The snow, which averages from eight to ten inches in depth, has seriously impeded traveling and has caused the men who haul freight to raise the price from 75 cents to $1 per hundred, and as there are no places for a team to put in between here and Florissant, some of the goods are worthless when they arrive here. Yesterday a load of potatoes came in frozen so that they had to be thrown away.

Herrmann.

Next to a circus there is no branch of the amusement business which attracts so large a class of people as a good prestidigitateur. Herrmann's reputation is world-wide, and in some respects he leads all others, so that every seat in the house was occupied last evening. It is unfortunate for Mr. Herrman that his chefs d'oeuvre have been so frequently and thoroughly explained by the papers, because the illusion loses its force and the feat becomes merely one of dexterity.

The sleight-of-hand work was excellent, many unique and amusing features being introduced. Professor Herrmann's assistance was excellent. Mme. Herrmann seemed to work harder than he did while the by-play of his dusky assistant amused the audience, while at the same time diverting their attention from the way the trick was being done.

The audience was warm and enthusiastic one and greeted each feat with hearty applause. If the magician was as greatly pleased as the people, he will not make the first visit the last to Colorado Springs.

It is always a pleasure to announce the coming of two such favorites as Mr. Joseph Grismer and his talented wife Phoebe Davies, as she is known professionally. It is a special pleasure, too, at this time, when they come to us with a play in which they will be seen at their best, which, unfortunately, was not the case on their last visit here. The Grismers are distinctively western favorites, Mr. Davies never appeared in the west and Mr. Grismer has been so long identified with the west that he is truly a Pacific coast and "inter-mountain" actor. They will appear next Monday evening in Gus Thomas' new play, "The Burglar," supported by an excellent company.

Mr. L. R. Ehrich is receiving some very complimentary notices from the east on his recent paper on the silver question. Among them is an autograph letter from Senator Sherman the great financier.

A Language for Dogs.

It must also be borne in mind that dogs have and always have been bred for special purposes, such as pointing, retrieving, canning, watching and biting, but not for general intelligence. Mr. Galton, who calls attention to this fact, suggests that it would be interesting as a psychological experiment to mate the cleverest dogs generation after generation, breeding and educating them solely for intellectual power and disregarding every other consideration.

In order to carry out this plan to perfection also to realize all the possibilities involved in such a comprehensive scheme, it would be necessary to devise a system of signs by which dogs would be able to communicate their ideas more fully and more clearly than they can do at present, both to each other and to man. That the foundation of such a language is not impossible is evident from what has been already achieved in the training of dogs for exhibition, as well as from the extent to which they have learned to understand human speech by mere association with man.—Professor E. P. Evans in Popular Science Monthly.

In Harrison's Chair.

A rather laughable scene was enacted all day long yesterday in front of one of the home furnishing stores on Main street. A rocking chair was set on the sidewalk and a placard stuck up stating that President Harrison sat in the chair at the time of the Bennington celebration. An affidavit of the sale by a Bennington furniture dealer to the Worcester firm was pinned up. The sign stated, "Sit down in the chair that President Harrison once sat in," and men and women and boys and girls all squatted for a moment in the chair and then hurried along.

It was laughable to see some people do the act. They would be walking along at a rapid pace, see the sign and land lightly on the cushion, and in another moment they were gone. Others, of a more moderate temperament, would make themselves at home in the chair for several moments, acting as if they enjoyed the cushion once occupied by the nation's chief official.—Worcester Spy.

Pleasure in Watching Birds.

However fixed the determination to observe a snake, a lizard or a fish, let a bird come near and how quickly we turn to it! If it is a thrush, in early June, or the Carolina wren at any season, and it sends forth in song, what power have we to turn a deaf ear? Though the problem at our feet may be almost solved, the rhythmic gush of a thousand wings overhead will draw us away; earth and its creeping creatures will pass from our minds that moment the heavens are darkened by a flock of birds.—Dr. C. C. Abbott in Monthly Star.

Fraud in Coffee Grinding.

It is in the grinding of coffee that the greatest opportunities for fraud occur, for here there is a chance to mix in any quantity of cheap adulterants, that are ground in so that the grains of the product are all of the same shape and color. The purchaser therefore has absolutely no protection—but of chemical or microscopical analysis—but a compound taking on the aroma of whatever it is in it, and very few persons will take the trouble to protect themselves against such imposition.—New York Sun.

Fish, Why Some Are Cheap.

It is a remarkable thing what a popular dish fish are in the ordinary restaurant. There are ten orders of baked bass given to one of chicken salad. Whether it is because of the insignificant price attached or of the platonic fancy of a cosmopolitan public, who knows?—Chicago Herald.

THE NEW YEAR GAZETTE.

For many years it has been the custom of THE GAZETTE to issue on New Year morning an illustrated special edition giving such a description of the city as is valuable to those not acquainted with the place, and such as those living here might wish to send to their friends in the east. With each succeeding year it has been our policy to make a more complete showing, and this policy will be continued in the present number. It is possible to do this because each number helps somewhat towards the succeeding one, because the new quarters and enlarged facilities of our new building make it possible to do more and because the increased size of the town gives us more to speak about, as well as more to do with.

The number this year will consist of twenty pages, fully occupied with illustrations and descriptions of the climatic, agricultural, mining and scenic resources of El Paso county and its three principal cities, Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou. A large part of the illustrations will be new and prepared especially for this issue. Especial attention will be given to the events of the past year, though nothing will be omitted that is necessary for a correct understanding of the cities and county as they are.

A large edition will be printed. Last year warning was duly given that the number of copies was limited and that those desiring them would do well to send in their orders in advance, yet the entire edition was exhausted by 9 o'clock New Year's day and many of those who wished copies were unable to obtain them. This year the number is much larger, but the attractiveness of the issue is so great that we are warranted in expecting the same quick sale as last year. As the pages are not stereotyped it will be impossible to print more after the first edition is exhausted. We furnish to-day to our local subscribers order blanks which will be filled on next Friday morning in the order in which they are received. We again repeat the warning of last year. The edition is limited, and in order to secure copies orders should be sent in early.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Special features of the number will be:

A complete descriptive article on the Colorado Springs water works system, completed in 1891, with a picture of Lake Moraine, the wonderful mountain reservoir of the city's drinking supply, and a map of the new Pike's Peak forest reserve, just since the [illegible] contribute for the use of the El Paso county towns and the mountains from which they draw their supply;

An article on the growth of the city for the past twenty years since its foundation in 1871, showing the different elements which have contributed to the growth of the city and the reasons for believing that the next twenty years will show a growth in equal proportion. This article will be illustrated by a map showing the original townsite of Colorado Springs and the principal additions made to the city and the suburbs, from Austin Bluffs to Broadmoor and Manitou. It will be also illustrated by accurate pictures of some of the larger houses completed in the past year.

An article on the amusements of the city, with new illustrations of the El Paso Club building, the Broadmoor Casino and the Ute Pass hotels;

A complete descriptive article on the new Cripple Creek mines, with a complete and accurate map of the camp, showing the location of streams, mountains, roads, townsites, together with the location of the principal mines. The investment at Cripple Creek of reliable and clear-headed business men and the opinions of mining experts of known character and ability is evidence that the Cripple Creek discovery is among the important events, perhaps the most important event of the year. In recognition of this fact THE GAZETTE will present to its readers the most complete article on the camp that has ever been published, the map being prepared with unusual expense and trouble.

The time and expense of preparing the present number have been greater than ever before, and we have good reason to believe that the results will be satisfactory to our readers.

When Chili shall have offered a satisfactory apology for killing the sailors of the Baltimore, there will still be the case of Patrick Shields, the man who was whipped for being an American.

The New York Republican announces its [illegible] New York edition. The thoroughly satisfactory quality of the paper in former years is the best kind of a guarantee of its success this time as it would of the prosperity of this capital city and the state.

To-morrow morning we will print in this column a full table of contents, including lists of the articles and illustrations which will appear in the New Year GAZETTE. An opportunity has been afforded to many of our readers to see some samples of the illustrations which have been prepared for this purpose, and the sheet containing the Cripple Creek map and some other pictures attracted much attention yesterday.

Ex-Senator Ingalls seems to be one of those politicians who are not without honor except in his own state. The death of Senator Plumb had hardly been announced when there was a general voice from the press of the east and west recounting the distinguished services of Mr. Ingalls. But Kansas people, at least for the present, appear very well pleased with the existing state of things, and the name of Ingalls is scarcely mentioned in connection with the vacant office.

We suggest that every professional boxer and so called prize fighter be required by law to register his name with the United States authorities, and in the event of war, foreign or domestic, the Bruisers brigade should be the first one ordered to the scene of trouble. It seems too bad that such a quantity of really good fighting should be wasted for a San Francisco or New Orleans holiday, when there is an evident lack of it in Chili and along the Mexican frontier. If Mr. Sullivan must enjoy his favorite amusement of making the face of his fellow man look like an amateur's attempt at repousse work or an "expensive" portrait of a prominent citizen, why does he not challenge Caterina Garza? Is it not a pity and opposed to the highest public interest that such a man as Austin Gibson should spend his time in hurting Andy Bowen, who had really done him no harm, when the Valparaiso police officials ought to have their heads punched, and to all appearances seem to be rather anxious for some one to make the attempt? Who can doubt that under such arrangements as we propose, there would be an additional saving of expense in the national ledger for the Democrats to brag of in the next election, or that war would become in reality what a writer in a prominent magazine recently declared it to be, a blessing and not a curse?

The Shadow of Possible War.

Philadelphia Press.

The policy of the United States by principle, preference and practice so works for peace, and looks toward it, that it is always extremely difficult to make the American public understand that war is ever possible. All wars come to our public as unexpected conflicts. It is as difficult to-day to persuade the people of the United States that Chili is moving toward a war with this country as it was forty-five years ago to persuade our public of the time situation with Mexico.

Looking back, it seems incredible that Mexico should have tempted that struggle. It had but a third of our population, a tenth of our resources, and a twentieth of our fighting force. Mexico was a child like an infidel. Yet when war began all Mexicans, and none more than those in command, believed that Texas would be conquered, and that the United States would limit its aid to filibusters, and that war by the United States was inconceivable, or, if it came, would end in speedy Mexican victory. Santa Anna had absolutely no doubt as to the result at Buena Vista when he ordered the assault on the little force before him, headed by an old man in his shirt sleeves on a white horse.

Chili is walking to-day in the same judicial blindness. It is barely possible that the disorganization of a permanent government may be made the occasion for a change of policy. The new cabinet and its membership is a little more open to reason and argument than its predecessor. It has a smaller proportion of the old landed oligarchy and larger share of the new trading magnates. It may be wise in time. We trust so. We fear not.

Preposterous as it may seem, educated Chilians believe that the United States will not fight under any provocation. They imagine, as Mexico did, that vigorous action in defense of the national honor is impossible in a country divided by party. They mistake our forbearance for fear. The temperate action of our [illegible] and our slow, cool, and serious, as Latin nations are but too apt, to a lack of courage. The patience with which Commander Schley, on the Philadelphia, has awaited orders and kept his men cooped on ship-board to avoid collisions is undoubtedly laid to the apprehension of war. The invincible patience and moderation with which our government has acted under a situation which another power would have long since ended by an ultimatum is interpreted by all Chilians as proof of our national imbecility.

All this seems incredible. None the less, it was true of Mexico in 1845. It is true of Chili in 1891. Mexico was then dreaming of a great Spanish-American dominion controlling the gulf. Chili to-day dreams of establishing supremacy in South America. Ten years ago, against our protest, and that of every other adjacent power, Chili brutally tore three provinces from Peru. They added to her other resources the largest revenue enjoyed by any power on this continent except the United States, if the demands on it are considered. She is to-day superior to any other power in South America. The only shadow upon her path is the power of this great, peaceful nation, which has been for years urging upon this continent arbitration.

Chili repulsed this policy in 1881. She rejected it at the Washington conference. At this, and at all other points, she has opposed the policy, attacked the motives, thwarted the proposals, and insulted the representatives of the United States. For ten years this has gone on. Chili believes to-day that her fleet can hold the United States at bay and defeat any fleet sent into her waters.

We sincerely trust that her frank apology will render it unnecessary to prove her error, but the United States, the most forbearing of nations, cannot permit her seamen to be mobbed and insulted, her legation to be besieged, and her just demands for reparation repulsed with scorn.

One thing is certain—if war does come, it should not end until the three provinces torn from Peru, Tacna, Arica, and Chacua—are restored to the power from which they were ravished in a war without justification, excuse in its origin, or mercy in its triumphs.

W. J. Scanlan's Illness.

The report that W. J. Scanlan is suffering from loss of memory, and that mental collapse is threatened, is wholly untrue. The well known Irish comedian has been slightly ill with a stomach trouble for some weeks, but his mind is as active and healthy as it ever was. He will end his New York run in "Mavourneen" Jan. 2. It will then have lasted for about 125 nights. Shortly after he leaves New York he will dedicate a new theater in Boston.

Ned Harrigan's Success.

Edward Harrigan has so completely dropped out of the notice of theater goers outside of New York that they are beginning to forget him. It is unlikely that he will ever travel much again. He has built a theater in New York, and with his own company has performed a play written by himself called "Reilly and the 400" for more than 200 nights. He is about to stage a new play called "The Last of the Hogans"

A WHITE HOUSE GUARD.

CAPTAIN DENSMORE'S PECULIAR CHARGE AT THE CAPITOL.

He Guards the President—The Man Who Stands Between the Chief Executive and the Weapons of Dangerous and Fanatical Cranks—His History.

Of the thousands who weekly visit the executive mansion not one fails to ask who the tall, heavily built man is standing either close by the president's side or hovering near him, and few forget, when once told, that "he's Captain Densmore." It is a Massachusetts citizen that has in his keeping the safety of President Harrison and of the White House family.

E. S. Densmore, the "captain," as he is often called, is an important personage in the White House economy. The charge committed to him is no light one. The life of the president of the United States, while not so thorny as that of the Russian czar, wouldn't be worth a row of frost bitten peach trees if one or two of the people who think they have grudges against him could get within range of the president. Hardly a week passes but threatening letters are received from cranks and persons who breathe out intimidations and promise swift vengeance. These are at once made Captain Densmore's property. If the crank is from Washington he generally knows him; if not, he soon makes himself acquainted with the needed information. Densmore seems to know cranks by instinct, and none get further than the door or the vestibules. Then he coaxes and manages till the crank or the bitter person with a wrong in his eye leaves, sends in a card or writes a note, which never reaches the president, who is thus left with but little knowledge of the annoyances and dangers attending him daily.

WHITE HOUSE GUARDS.

The White House, during Hayes' administration, found its guard demoralized. Densmore, who was a marked man by this time, was sent for. He resigned from the police force and went to assist in guarding the lives of presidents. From that time on he has been at the mansion almost continually. During Cleveland's administration he resigned and went to Massachusetts to look after the interests of a Fitchburg firm. During that time he took up a residence in the Bay State, where he is still a voter.

When Harrison came to Washington before the inauguration Mr. Densmore was sent for and requested to assume charge of President Harrison, just as he had of Cleveland at his inauguration. Although still in the employ of the Fitchburg house, he consented to remain till the inauguration was over. Prior to March 4 the life of the president-elect is a matter of solicitude, and every danger is guarded against. None, not even the hotel servants, is allowed to enter the president's apartments until Densmore has looked him over and pronounced him harmless. After the inauguration the captain remained as guest and guide for a few days, and later, at the urgent request of the family, he resumed his old position as chief guardian of the president's life and the rampart between the family and an envious public.

When the president leaves his office for a public reception in the East room the tall man is close at his side. He has looked over all the people, and satisfied him. All there is no suspicious characters in the house. Then he fills up one pocket with a beautiful pistol, and the crowd files singly either between him and the president, to whom he performs the introductions, or by him first, and then the president, as they stand side by side.

A CONSTANT WATCH.

Densmore has his eye on every one; on hands for suspicious movements, and on faces for any token of danger, while on the other side of the line is another guard who keeps his eyes open also, and the president takes it all without a wink.

Sometimes queer things happen at receptions, and people seem to think Captain Densmore must be some relative or at least a high official. One old man got out the door after seeing the president, came back, and insisted on shaking the vice president's hand.

Immediately after inauguration, and during the first two years of an administration, a president's life is always held to be in greatest danger.

Captain Densmore himself is not on station at night at the house, but is in charge of all arrangements, and is particular that the most muscular men shall be at the door. For the man who sees that the president's sleep is undisturbed he has picked out the strongest [illegible] of manhood on the Washington police force.

In the grounds the watchmen are under his eye, and the night men have learned that it doesn't do to neglect duty or run chances by taking a nap, for Captain Densmore is as likely to be standing under the shadow of a tree at midnight or to walk into the little guard-house at 2 o'clock a. m., as he is to be on hand promptly at 9 the next morning for the first caller.

Outside the grounds he is not supposed to attend the president unless requested. It has been his custom, however, to act as escorts to trains and be on hand for the president's arrival. Since Garfield's death the captain has never failed in this, because he feels that if, as had been his habit previously, he had only gone to the station with Garfield Guiteau could never have shot the president.—Boston Globe.

LITTLE BELLE'S CHRISTMAS.

Thrilling Reunion of Father and Child on the Eve of the Coming Holiday.

Every one who knew "Little Texas" agreed that she was the most amiable and altogether the sweetest and most lovable child to be found anywhere.

A pretty child, too, was "Little Texas," with her wealth of golden curls, blue eyes and sunny features.

She was a child of the people.

No one ever seemed to know who her parents were, nor what was her real name, nor how or where she lived. That she was poor was evident, as she earned daily a pittance by selling flowers, mostly to the occupants of one of the large office buildings on lower Broadway.

She had a smile and a good word for everybody, but was very reticent as to her antecedents. Belle, she said, was her name, and she lived, so she stated, with an aunt somewhere under the big bridge. But whether it was Belle Smith or Bello Jones the child would never say.

"My aunt does not wish me to tell my name," she would answer when questioned on the subject.

Little Belle—for she was only ten years old—visited the various offices in the big Broadway building each morning, and the kind hearted men bought her little bunches of violets and roses, often paying many times what they were worth, for little Belle had such a sweet smile of thanks for those who purchased her wares.

From day to day the child sold her flowers, and, although daily questioned, she would never reveal her full name nor say where she lived. It was finally accepted as a matter of course. Little Belle was a mystery.

In one of the large offices of the great building one morning last week a middle aged man, with a full brown beard and slouch hat, careless and easy in his manners, but well dressed withal, sat discussing general topics with a party of gentlemen there assembled.

"Yes," said the stranger, "Christmas comes but once a year, as you say, but that is just once too often for me." At this there was a general exclamation of surprise on the part of his auditors. The stranger continued:

"It is a sad story, and the sad part of it happened on Christmas day six years ago. I had one of the prettiest homes down in Texas then you ever saw. My wife, she's dead now," he said with a sigh, "and the loveliest child, a little girl with golden brown hair and blue eyes. Little Belle was her name.

"We had such a happy home too. And that Christmas day. Ah, how well I remember it now. The child had a nurse whom she used to call Auntie. Somehow I never trusted that woman much. Well, there's no use in going into particulars. Little Belle and her nurse went out for a walk on that Christmas morning. Neither the nurse nor the child has been seen since. My poor wife died—it broke her heart. And I, well I—

"Want any flowers today, sir?" came from the voice of a little child who had just entered the office.

"My God! Whose child is that? What's your name, girl? Who are you?" came from the Texan in excited tones.

Little Belle, the flower girl, for it was she, stood irresolute for a moment, eying the stranger suspiciously. Suddenly her basket dropped and the light of recognition shone in her eyes. "Why, you're my papa," she said simply.

Tears streamed down the Texan's face as he clasped the child in his arms.

"Thank God!" said he, "I have found her at last, and so near Christmas too. This is indeed a Christmas blessing!"

Father and daughter left the office together. It was afterward learned that Belle's supposed aunt was the nurse who had kidnaped her and brought her to this city six years since. The men about the big building heard of it, and as little Belle had gone to her Texan home the day following a purse was made up among them, and one of their number with it purchased a handsome silver cup, which is now on its way south.

"Little Texas, from many friends. Merry Christmas!" was the inscription on the cup.—New York Herald.

The Family Buyer.

"Augustus, dear, I bought something awfully nice today in town," remarked Kathrine at dinner last evening in the little Queen Anne cottage on Staten Island, as she looked across the table at her young husband.

"Yes, dear?"

"Yes; I bought your present."

"What is it?"

"Oh, I can't tell you now. And I bought the present you are going to give Marjorie."

"My present to Marjorie?"

"Yes, and the present you are going to give the baby."

"But, my dear, I—"

"Oh, it is just lovely. You will see it on Christmas eve. And I bought the present you're going to give me, and—"

"But, really Kathrine, I should like to choose my own presents."

"Oh, I know it is just what you would have thought of, and I saw a lovely thing which I am going to get for Marjorie to give you, but you'll have to give me the money for it, dear; I spent all I had. And I want to give your present to sister Josie, too, and—"

Augustus said something right there, but as he said it to himself it wouldn't be fair to repeat it.—Exchange.

What She Expects.

It may not be so, of course, but the idea suggested itself that people got to writing it "Xmas" because your best girl expects you to invest an X in her Christmas present.—Somerville Journal.

Fact.

This is the season when a young woman blows in a dollar for a young man's Christmas present, and he has to see her and go her about fifteen better.—Washington Critic.

All He Cares About.

Young woman, never mind about the value of the gift you send him. If your heart goes with it that's all he'll care about.—Hartford Post.

An Effectual Remedy.

He—There is a certain young lady simply haunts me, and with I like her, you know, still I never could love her. I want to put an end to it without breaking the poor girl's heart. Can you suggest any plan?

She—Do you call there often?

He—No, indeed. Not any oftener than I can possibly help.

The Call Office.—Truth.

Unexpected Result.

"There," he said fondly, "just to show you how much I thought of you I took your picture with my new instantaneous camera. Here it is."

"Do you think it looks like me?" she inquired, almost tearfully.

"Why—er—yes, of course."

"Then all is over. I cannot be yours. It must be my money and not myself that you seek."—New York Sun.

A Severe Operation.

Chollie—You look very pale today, my deah boy.

Chappie—Ya as; I took ethaw this mawning.

Chollie—Took ethaw! Did you have a tooth drawn?

Chappie—No, the doctaw put a powous plaster on me back.—New York Press.

A Patent Expiration.

Pipkin—What! Having your patent leathers shined, and only bought them ten days ago! Wasn't the leather any good?

Potts—Leather is all right, but the patent seems to have expired.—Truth.

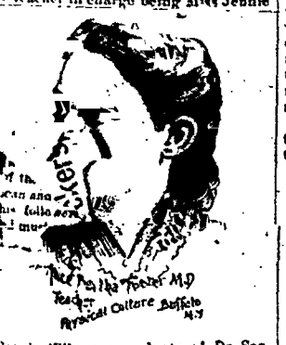
...ercise and fine, lusty physical life ...would give their mental being toward ...health and happiness.

Dr. Dudley Allen Sargent, director of the Hemenway gymnasium at Harvard and the leading authority in America on athletic matters and the study and practice of physical culture and development, tells me that two-thirds of the summer school at Harvard as well as his normal classes are women. He says they are quick, bright, intelligent learning and most capable and successful instructors; and he insists that women are the coming teachers of physical culture.

Dr. Sargent also has supervision of the gymnasium for the Harvard annex, the teacher in charge being Miss Jennie



Jennie Blanche Wilson, Dr. Sargent's Assistant

Blanche Wilson, a graduate of Dr. Sargent's normal classes. The normal classes are held in this gymnasium and from them have been sent out graduates to teach physical culture, according to Dr. Sargent's methods, in colleges and schools all over the country. Of these some of the most distinguished and successful are:

Miss Elizabeth McMartin, in charge of the Charlesbank free gymnasium for women and children, Boston.

Miss Harriet Isabel Ballintine, director of the fine Alumnæ gymnasium at Vassar.

Anne R. Foster, M. D., director of gymnasium Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Juliette Maxwell, teacher of physical training, Coates college, Terre Haute, Ind.

Miss Ellen L. Lowell, Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, Cal.

Miss D. M. Elliott and Miss Mary G. Fatz, Berkeley lyceum, New York City.

Miss Margaret E. Clark is building a gymnasium of her own in Cambridge.

Miss Ballintine made rather a specialty of swimming, and there is a fine big swimming tank in the Vassar gymnasium, where she now teaches.

This is the one athletic sport in which a woman may easily excel a man, her smaller bone and greater amount of adipose tissue giving her more buoyancy in the water, and the muscular effort required being more continuous than men's. And there certainly could be no two opinions as to its being a most useful and desirable accomplishment to the modern woman, who is quite as likely to "go near the water" as her brothers.

The Charlesbank gymnasium, of Boston, is a free open air gymnasium on the bank of the Charles, with one department for men, and one for women and children; the latter, in charge of Miss McMartin, being the first institution of the sort in the world. This is going at the matter in the right quarter, providing healthful exercise and means of physical development for those who most need it, and stand the least chance of getting it—that feminine portion of the city which flies slowly out of the great sweating boxes between the hours of sunset and sunrise. The gymnasium belongs to the city, is absolutely free to all, and is open daily from eight a. m. till half an hour after sunset. Any working girl or woman seeking pleasant exercise and physical development may secure all the privileges of the place, apparatus and instruction, by simply presenting her name. The gymnasium is fitted up in the most improved manner, and in accordance with the most modern methods under Dr. Sargent's supervision. The apparatus used is much the same as that in the men's gymnasium, and in all other well equipped institutions of the sort, differing in some respects from the men's in that some of the paraphernalia has been changed to meet the requirements of the sex.

You often hear it said that when given opportunities for physical or mental improvement people (especially poor working people who have most needed them) are too indifferent to avail themselves of them. But this certainly has not proved true in the case of the Charlesbank gymnasium for women. The total attendance of women and children the first week of its existence was 9,693; and Miss McMarth told me on October 13 that the total attendance from June 1 till that day was 140,000.

The dress prescribed for those who use the more difficult and advanced apparatus is very neat, becoming and suitable, consisting simply of a blue blouse and full, zouave like trousers. There is no skirt; for, as Dr. Sargent justly says, a skirt is not the dress for climbing, jumping gymnastics, flying around on horizontal bar, or hanging head down on a trapeze.

At first the girls were quite timid and very shy of being observed. The gymnasium was only protected from the gaze of curious men by thick shrubbery; and in the early days the stopping of one lone man to observe the goings on within was sufficient to suspend all operations temporarily. So a big wooden fence was put up, and a city ordinance passed making it a finable offence for persons even in carriages—to stop unduly and watch the girls at exercise. Miss McMartin is a police man, too, wearing the regular badge of the park police, and carrying a policeman's whistle with which she can summon help, if needed.

It is a sight to do your heart good—the gymnasium when things are at their liveliest. All classes, types and varieties of girls and women are there, from nine years to sixty, from the child weighing 50 to 55 pounds to the "stout lady" who tips the beam at 200, so that Miss McMartin says she sometimes trembles for the apparatus. All is life, animation, jollity. This goes without saying. How could they be otherwise than gay, good humored and hopeful with the blood bounding in their veins, cheeks and limbs aglow, eyes shining, hearts waked up and pounding away like great, glorious engines to send the healthful currents, like glad tidings of good cheer, to the uttermost provinces of that dark land, the weary body, cramped and chilled and enervated through long hours in close sewing rooms, behind counters or in ill ventilated tenement houses?

There is a nursery attached to the gymnasium for the babies and little chaps who are under age to use the apparatus. There they play games, run romp and dig in the sand, to be, several of which are provided for them, all under the charge of a careful matron.

It seems to me that such a gymnasium established in every city, absolutely free, subject only to the rules and regulations dictated by their superior intelligence and competent teachers, would do more to the good than many different public semi-charitable institutions, would be a great factor in the moral improvement of the race (for it is the minority who can patronize expensive private gymnasiums and physical culture classes), and would be, to thousands of girls and women, a welcome angel of the good time which is surely coming.

ALICE ALCOTT WAGAN.

ONE HUNDRED YRS AGO.

Work Performed by Women During the Eighteenth Century.

The scarcity of domestic articles at the Guelph exhibition left many visitors under the impression that needlework, like all manual occupations, was much neglected by the ladies of the Georgian era.

Happily this impression is clearly refuted by sweet Cowper, witty Dr. Johnson, and humorous Addison, who all agreed in their praise of the needle, so inspired were they by the astounding quantity of every kind of work executed by their acquaintances.

Who is not familiar, in with the capacious work bags of our great grandmothers, as well as in their quaint samplers and pictures embroidered in a flat style, which contrast greatly with the raised and complicated productions of the needle during the reign of the Stuarts? The example of women's activity came, as usual, from high quarters.

We read with no little amazement of the prodigious number of tapestry chairs worked by the Electress Sophia, mother of George I., who left tokens of her nimble fingers in palaces, convents and churches all over the country, which did not prevent this gifted princess from learning five languages, besides being renowned as a clever painter and gardener as well as a profound philosopher.

Caroline, wife of Prince of Wales, 1795, interested herself in the silkworms kept in the mulberry garden at Chelsea and was forever knitting. Later on Queen Charlotte, fond herself of knitting, knotting and ribbon work, showed her special interest in needlework by establishing a school for the daughters of clergymen and decayed tradesmen, where silk embroidery was taught as a profession.

The pupils worked for their patroness a magnificent bed-cover in lilac satin, which was exhibited for a long time at Hampton court, and another for Lord Howard, in gray silk, embroidered with white and gold spots. It is also well known that at the court of George III. idleness even in leisure hours was not tolerated.

We are told that when at Windsor castle, every day during the evening concerts, the princesses, their visitors and attendants were all busy either with pencil, needle or knotting. Queen.

Lots of Moving.

Angry Landlord—You've either got to pay your back rent right now or get out.

Tenant—All right, I'll get out. By the way, have you seen furniture car No. 999 to-day?

"Not that I know of. Isn't one furniture mover as good as another?"

"Yes, but I've got a yearly contract with him."—N. Y. Weekly.

A WINTER IN THE SOUTH.

A winter in the South—the very words conjure up delicious memories for those who have been there. The bright sunny skies, the dry bracing air and the warm sunshine is in vivid contrast to the cold blast North.

The great state of Texas is celebrated as one of the best winter resort in itself, but the following places are, perhaps, particularly popular: Fort Worth, with its mineral baths, healthful climate and good hotels; Austin, the beautiful Capital City; San Antonio, one of the few really historical places in our country; Houston, with its blooming roses, olive trees and groves of orange and lemon; and Galveston, with its delicious sea breezes. These are but a few of the delightful resorts of this highly favored region.

An escape from all the pains and discomforts of our rigorous climate—rather, a escape by magic from the cold, of snow and ice, to the balmy climate of our summer-land, is now made possible and easy by the Denver, Texas & Ft. Worth Branch of the Union Pacific System, which runs through Pullman Palace Sleepers, between Denver, Ft. Worth, Dallas, Shreveport and New Orleans, and offers exceedingly low excursion rates to all South ern cities from Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Trinidad. For a full description of Southern winter resorts, apply over the Union Pacific System, or for excursion rates, apply to W. G. Rice, Union Pacific ticket agent, office 11 Pike's Peak avenue, for a copy of the Union Pacific Winter Tours Folder.

A NEW SLEEPER, EAST-BOUND.

Daily to St. Louis, Daily.

Travelers will be glad to learn that a through Pullman Buffet Sleeper leaves Denver each evening at 8.40 on the "Great Rock Island Route" via Kansas City and the "Wabash" to St. Louis.

Remember, you leave Denver at a seasonable hour, and arrive at St. Louis second morning at a good business hour, a fact appreciated by travelers.

JOHN SEBASTIAN,
General Ticket and Passenger Agt. Chicago.

BEAUTIFUL OKLAHOMA.

An earnest appeal to the home seeking invalids of Oklahoma territory by land seekers, April 22, 1889 and September 22nd, 1891, have given that section deserved prominence as a place in which to cheaply obtain one of Uncle Sam's farms. The lands actually occupied are located in the Old Iowa, Sac and Fox and Potawatomie reservations, lying directly east of Guthrie and Oklahoma City, on the A. T. & S. F. R. R. They now constitute counties "A" and "B" with Chandler and Tecumseh as respective county seats—both large and rapidly growing towns. Claims can be bought for reasonable figures. For the raising of corn, cotton, wheat and fruit, Oklahoma is unexcelled.

Write to G. T. Nicholson, G. P. & T. A., Topeka, Kan., or J. P. Hall, Colorado Passenger Agent, Denver, Colorado, for a specially prepared folder giving full information relative to Beautiful Oklahoma.

FINE PLAYING CARDS.

Send ten (10) cents in stamps or coin to John Sebastian, General Ticket and Passenger Agt. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, Chicago, Ills., for the latest, most up to date, slickest playing cards you ever saw. Just the thing for High Five parties. For a 50c. postal note will send you five packs.

WORDS OF PRAISE

Are heard on every side, from the traveling public, for the unsurpassed service of the Santa Fe route. It is justly said that the Chicago vestibuled express is the finest train by all odds, that comes into Colorado. The very latest improvements in palace cars. Unexcelled dining car service. No change of cars between Colorado Springs and Chicago.

The special Pullman sleeping car left at Colorado Springs, daily, in which space may be reserved at the city ticket office in the Opera House Block. Telephone 51. C. C. HOYT, Agent.

RIO GRANDE.

Trains to Denver 8.00 a. m., 10.42 a. m., 3.22 p. m., 4.10 a. m., and 4.55 a. m. To Pueblo 9.45 a. m., 4.40 p. m., 6.5 p. m., 9.45 p. m., and 10.40 p. m., connecting with all Eastern trains.

Commencing Sunday November 15th, a Wabash Through Pullman Car service was inaugurated in connection with the "Rock Island," from Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and other Colorado points, to St. Louis. These Pullmans are of the newest and choicest design, and will leave Denver daily on "Rock Island" No. 42, 5.40 p. m., arriving at St. Louis at 7 o'clock on the second morning, at which point direct connections will be made in Union Depot with limited trains for all points east, south and southeast.

Remember, only one change of cars from Denver to New York, Boston and other far eastern points. Sleeping berths can be secured by addressing C. M. HAMPSON, Commercial Agent, 1 37 17th St., Denver, Colo.

Attention is called to a change in the Santa Fe time table taking effect Sunday, by which two additional trains are put on between Colorado Springs and Denver.

Leave Colorado Springs 1.20 p. m., arrive St. Louis second morning, via the Great Rock Island Route. Through Sleeping Car service and meals all in dining cars.

THE PHILADELPHIA PRESS

Daily, Sunday, Weekly.

A FAMILY PAPER,

WHICH IS

Clean, Unexceptional and Just the Paper

FOR THE American Home.

THE PRESS has the best possible organization to secure news from the most important sources, and with nearly 400 correspondents in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, the State and near-at-home news is covered with a routine, carefulness and attention to detail not even attempted by any other paper.

THE PRESS has also the best of correspondents in all the great cities of the United States, as well as financial and railroad experts in Chicago and the West, who keep the paper more than abreast with events.

The columns of the SUNDAY PRESS are enriched by contributions from those whose names are written high in our lists of great authors, novelists, essayists as well as from men of high rank in public life. The best authors know that their best audiences are the readers of the DAILY, SUNDAY and WEEKLY PRESS.

In politics THE PRESS knows no other master than the people and the past year has seen as has less seen before, the marked fact that it is subservient to no political boss. It has no political ambitions to foster, but looks after the interests of its readers, and delivers itself upon the issues of the day in a manner both fresh and fearless, letting the facts speak for themselves and evading no issues but meeting them all on the basis of fair play to all men at all times. Its pages know no distinctions and the rights of one class over another are neither recognized nor expected.

Advertisements of Help Wanted, Business Opportunities, Real Estate, etc., may be inserted in THE PRESS for ONE CENT A WORD.

The Forum is the most [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible]

The future great issues of subjects of the solution that will be impartially and intelligently discussed by the ablest writers:

I. POLITICAL SUBJECTS growing out of the Presidential Campaign.

II. FINANCIAL DISTURBANCES [illegible]

III. THEOLOGICAL UNREST—with all the Social Questions suggested by these grounds of great topics.

There is no other way whereby one may get the clear information about the great problems of the time within so narrow a compass or for so small a sum—short studies of great subjects by more than a hundred of the foremost men and women of the world; because there is only one American periodical for which all the ablest leaders of opinion and of thought write; and that is THE FORUM.

The December number for example contains: "Reorganization by Presidents of the Period of Loyal Volunteers," by Lieut. Alex. R. Foote, Founder of the Society of Loyal Volunteers; "The Meaning of the Democratic Victory in Massachusetts," by Gov. Wm. E. Russell; "French Feeling Towards Germany—Another Conflict About Alsace-Lorraine Inevitable," by Camille Pelletan, Member of the French Chamber of Deputies; "Should the Silver Law of 1890 be Repealed," by Jacob H. Schiff, one of the most widely and influential bankers in New York; "Is Modern Education a Failure?" by Frederic Harrison, the great English critic; "Universal Compulsion Should Be Tried," by Alexander F. Walker, Chairman of the Western Traffic Association; "Why We Claim—The Volume and the Value of Their Work," by Alice E. Rhines; "A Day with Lord Tennyson," by Sir Edwin Arnold. And five other articles.

There are now in progress discussions of "Our Railway System," "Prison Management," "The Training of Professors," The Louisiana Lottery, "The Next Step in the Tariff Agitation," "Are Modern Education Methods a Failure?"

ADVERTISING:

[illegible] on application to the [illegible]

Mrs. H. A. [illegible] evening from [illegible] several weeks with friends at Monmouth, Ill.

Mr. M. M. Boddie, who has been at The Antlers for the past few weeks, left for his home in Chicago last evening. He will return shortly to remain for the winter.

Next week will be the week of prayer. There will be union meetings every afternoon except Saturday in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. at 3 o'clock.

A called communication of Acacia lodge No. 85, A. F. & A. M., this evening at 7:30 o'clock for work on the E. A. degree. All Masons cordially invited to be present.

Mr. T. F. Appleton, who was injured at Fremont some time ago by being struck on the head, was in the city yesterday. He is enroute to the east to consult a specialist regarding his injuries which are still troubling him.

Mr. J. Irvin Scott, of the firm of Bonbright & Scott, left on last evening's Rock Island train for the east. Mr. Scott combines business with pleasure on this trip, and left with the substantial good wishes of his many friends.

In the county court yesterday morning three more of the indicted Colorado City gamblers appeared and entered a plea of guilty. They were Tracy, Ford and Thompson. The first two paid fines amounting to $61.65 each and the last paid $58.95.

It is stated on pretty good authority that the smelter project for Colorado City is being revived, and that articles of incorporation for a company will soon be filed. The system talked of is something new that Senator Tabor, of Denver, is interested in.

The owners of the Beer Creek toll road have decided to complete the road into Cripple Creek. There are about six miles of the road yet to build, and the work is to be pushed immediately. It is thought that it can be completed by May 1. The road will enter the town of Fremont through the north-east corner.

Articles of incorporation of the Beaver Creek Mining and Milling company were filed with the county clerk yesterday. The capital stock is $1,000,000 in non-assessable shares of $1 each. The incorporators are Matt France, J. E. Reynolds and David McShane, and the directors are F. J. Felon, C. E. Stable, D. McShane, Charles Behrens and Joseph E. Reynolds.

Colorado Springs council No. 7, Order of Chosen Friends, elected the new officers Monday evening: Councilor, John G. Wintemeyer; past councilor, A. W. Maxwell; vice councilor, Mrs. Emily J. L[illegible]; secretary, W. W. Williamson; treasurer, Richard Purdon; prelate, Mrs. Nellie Duffy; guard, Joseph Hunter; [illegible] A. W. Maxwell; R. [illegible] A. B. Stra[illegible].

A varied programme, under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Christian church will be presented at that edifice on New Year's eve. In the earlier part of the evening vocal music, by some of our best talent, and elocutionary exercises, together with Mrs. Jarley's wax works, will be presented, while later an oyster supper and "watch meeting" will occupy the attention. All are invited to participate.

About 8 o'clock last evening the fire department was summoned by an alarm turned in from box 46. The blaze proved to be in a small out house near the Midland depot and occupied by Mr. [illegible] Fitzgerald, gate keeper at the Rio Grande [illegible]. The fire was confined only in the roof of the little kitchen in the rear and was easily extinguished by a strong stream from a line of hose laid by the France company. The [illegible] about $200. The building was owned by Mr. Geo. Quackenbush, the builder.

Bobby Gaylor as Sport McAllister.

The opera house will throw its doors open to the public again to-morrow evening. The attraction will be the inimitable and ever popular Bobby Gaylor, assisted by W. A. Brady's company of comedians in the new farcical creation Austin Hall's "Sport McAllister," one of the best. It will be seen at [illegible] "In this piece, [illegible] comedy, pure and elevate [illegible] Gaylor [illegible] full scope for the house complete [illegible] famous specialties and [illegible]. An article [illegible] by one of the very city, with notes of [illegible] on the road. The [illegible] will include Georgia Parker, well [illegible] and [illegible] leading comedienne of the [illegible] company, the Olympia quartet [illegible] with Evans & Hoey's New Cripple Creek company, Jennie St. Claire, [illegible] and [illegible] Alexander, Sallie Carter, Nellie [illegible], J.
